

ED Brown

Ed Brown is a trailblazing entrepreneur, celebrated author, and dynamic business strategist. As President and CEO of E. Brown. The Firm, he leads a powerhouse consultancy delivering cutting-edge marketing, consulting, and business development solutions to corporate, government, and private sector clients. His firm is renowned for helping organizations unlock new ventures, expand financial portfolios, and drive sustainable economic growth, particularly within South Florida's vibrant urban communities.

Beyond his success in business, Ed Brown is a gifted storyteller and thought leader. His acclaimed literary works, "Take Flight" and "Constant Pressure," have earned the admiration of professionals and readers across industries, inspiring countless individuals to pursue their ambitions with resilience and vision.

A pioneer in aviation history, Brown was the owner of Opa-Locka Flightline, making him the founder of the nation's first Black-owned Fixed Base Operation (FBO) — a landmark achievement in American aviation. His leadership journey also includes roles as:

- City Manager for the City of Opa-Locka
- Director of Franchise Development for the Metro Miami Action Plan Trust
- Adjunct Professor at Florida Memorial University and Fort Lauderdale College

Ed Brown's influence spans industries and communities, earning him national media recognition in outlets such as Entrepreneur Magazine, Private Air Magazine, Intercontinental Franchise Review, MIA Miami Today, The Miami Herald, and the cover of Success Magazine.

A proud alumnus of St. Thomas University, Brown holds a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration and a Master's Degree in Public Administration. His career reflects a lifelong commitment to innovation, empowerment, and building bridges to new economic opportunities.